Shayne Robinson is a registered dietitian board certified in oncology nutrition. She recently joined the oncology team at the Columbia campus as the New York Presbyterian Herbert Irving Pavilion Infusion Center Dietitian/Nutritionist. She comes most recently from the New York Presbyterian Weill Cornell campus where her expertise and extensive experience in oncology nutrition has been of benefit to both patients and clinicians.

After receiving her BS from the University of Maryland and internship through the NY Institute of Technology, Shayne spent over 10 years as the Oncology Dietitian at The Beth Israel and Saint Vincent's Comprehensive Cancer Centers before coming to NY Presbyterian in 2013. She is currently the Oncology Dietetic Practice Group's representative to the House of Delegates of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics. She has served on the board of the Greater New York Dietetic Association, the Oncology Standards of Practice Committee of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics, and published articles on oncology nutrition.

Shayne has dedicated her career to providing medical nutrition therapy to patients and education to health professionals and the public on nutrition subjects relating to cancer. In addition to being a yogi and yoga teacher, she enjoys skiing, cooking, running and gardening in her spare time.

Shayne speaks to healthcare professionals and public audiences on oncology nutrition for prevention, treatment and survivorship.
